

Key element of electrical power system for International Space Station in Huntsville testing

Key element of electrical power system for International Space Station in Huntsville testing

P6 cargo element for the International Space Station in a test chamber at the Lockheed Martin Test Facility in Denver, Colorado. This Space Station component has arrived at Marshall Space Flight Center in Huntsville, Alabama for structural testing.

###

International Space Station Home
