First Boeing 757-300s Readied for Delivery

Five Boeing 757-300s - due to be delivered to launch customer Condor Flugdienst - receive finishing touches at a Boeing Field hangar in Seattle, Wash. The 757-300 is the newest of the Boeing commercial jetliner models and is scheduled for first delivery in early March. Boeing worked with Condor, a German charter airline, to design and produce an airplane that will have lower operating costs per passenger seat than any other single-aisle airplane ever made. Icelandair and Arkia Israeli Airlines also have ordered the model.
