British Airways' 25th Boeing 777 Flies Toward the New Millenium

British Airways, flagship carrier of the United Kingdom, recently took delivery of its 25th Boeing 777. The airline has 20 more 777s to be delivered from its total order of 45. British Airways is the largest Boeing 777 customer outside the United States and is the first airline to receive and introduce the 777-200ER (extended range) into commercial service. With its excellent range, the 777-200ER can operate on some of British Airways' longest routes such as London to Denver.
