Korean Air's First Boeing Next-Generation 737-800 Flies Home

The first of eight Boeing Next-Generation 737-800s scheduled for delivery to Korean Air this year takes-off for Seoul, Korea The new 737s will help Korean Air simplify its fleet and meet anticipated passenger traffic demands in Northeast Asia. The carrier plans to operate the Next-Generation 737-800 fleet on its domestic routes, and on routes that connect Korea to China and Japan.

###

For further information:
T. May Kulthol
(206) 766-2033
Sean Griffin
(425) 237-4232