Three Boeing 737-800s In One Day For Hapag-Lloyd

Three new Boeing Next-Generation 737-800 jetliners for German airline Hapag-Lloyd wait at Boeing Field in Seattle, Wash., before being flown home to Hannover, Germany. Boeing delivered all three airplanes to the airline on the same day. Hapag-Lloyd was the first carrier in the world to order Boeing Next-Generation 737-800s. The carrier's order for 16 737-800s in November 1994 launched the 737-800 program
