Boeing Military Aircraft and Missile Systems to Change News Release Distribution Process

Beginning June 4, Boeing Military Aircraft and Missile Systems will change the way it distributes news releases.

To provide you with up-to-the-minute information and increase efficiency, the Boeing Military Aircraft and Missile Systems news bureau will convert to distribution via Boeing Media exclusively. You will continue to receive news from other Boeing communications organizations via your current distribution method.

In addition to news and photo releases, boeingmedia.com provides media professionals with resource materials about The Boeing Company - including press kits, a high-resolution image gallery suitable for download and a directory of Boeing media relations contacts.

To ensure continuous delivery of information about Boeing defense products, systems and services, visit boeingmedia.com today and subscribe to the automatic e-mail distribution of news releases. Once you register for this service, Boeing Military Aircraft and Missile Systems news releases will be sent to you without further action on your part.
