

Boeing, Rolls-Royce Verify Jet Noise Reductions

The Boeing and Rolls-Royce flight test program used a modified Trent 800 engine on a 777-200ER to verify takeoff jet noise reductions of four decibels. Saw-tooth-shaped devices are added to the rear of the nacelle and on the exhaust nozzle.

###

For further information:

Mary Jean Olsen

425-234-0901

Ken DeJarlais

kenneth.r.dejarlais@boeing.com
