

Air Europa Flies its First Boeing 737-800 with Winglets

Spanish airline Air Europa flies its first Boeing 737-800 with winglets, the upward-swept extensions on the tip of the wings. Winglets reduce fuel burn, increase the distance the airplane can fly, improve takeoff performance, reduce takeoff noise, and lower engine maintenance costs.

###

For further information:

Cheryl Addams

office: (206) 766-2919

Ken DeJarlais

kenneth.r.dejarlais@boeing.com
