

Boeing 7E7 Dreamliner will Provide More Comfort for Passengers

Boeing 7E7 Dreamliner will Provide More Comfort for Passengers

Boeing is working to ensure that the 7E7, expected to enter service in 2008, will be more comfortable than any other commercial jet airplane. Details about the interior will not be available for some time, but the company showed several interior concepts that demonstrate the innovative concepts it is considering during its development phase.

###

For further information:
Lori Gunter
425-294-1722
