Boeing and Air France Announce Order for 747-400 Special Freighters

Boeing and Air France have penned an agreement to convert three Boeing 747-400 airplanes into freighters as part of the Boeing 747-400 Special Freighter program. Boeing originally delivered the three airplanes as Combi models. The airline later converted the airplanes to full passenger configuration.

This illustration depicts the converted airplane in Air France livery.

Seven customers have announced 33 firm orders and 29 options.

###

For further information:
Vicki Ray
vicki.l.ray@boeing.com
Wesley C. Wong
wesley.c.wong@boeing.com