Boeing Names McKenna to Lead Commercial Airplanes Fabrication

Boeing has named Pat McKenna vice president and general manager of its Commercial Airplanes Fabrication business unit reporting to Carolyn Corvi, vice president and general manager of Airplane Production.

In this role, McKenna is responsible for leading nearly 12,000 employees who together comprise the largest consolidated operation in the world dedicated to engineering and manufacturing aerospace parts, tools and assemblies.

###

For further information:
Boeing Communications
253-931-3779