

Boeing-built Satellite for XM Satellite Radio Successfully Launched

Boeing-built Satellite for XM Satellite Radio Successfully Launched

Technicians at Boeing's Satellite Development Center in El Segundo Calif., prepare XM-4, also known as "Blues," for testing in the acoustic chamber. XM-4, the 13th Boeing 702 satellite, will join "Rhythm," which was successfully launched in February 2005.

###

For further information:

Dave Garlick

The Boeing Company

(310) 364-8286

dave.garlick@boeing.com

Diana Ball

The Boeing Company

(562) 797-4303

diana.ball@boeing.com
