Boeing Provides Training to F-15C Pilots

The Boeing Company [NYSE: BA], provider of five U.S. Air Force F-15C Mission Training Centers, has logged 100 percent center availability over the past four years.

Below, U.S. Air Force 1st Lt. Matt Woodfield "flies" an F-15C trainer at the Boeing-operated Mission Training Center at Langley Air Force Base, Va. The centers provide full-fidelity F-15C training, including 360 degree visuals as well as night vision goggle and Joint Helmet Mounted Cueing System simulations.

###

For further information:
Stacey Ritter
Boeing Media Relations
(314) 777-6438
stacey.l.ritter@boeing.com