Boeing 787-9 Dreamliner Soars Ahead of Paris Air Show

New aerial demonstration video spotlights 787-9 capabilities, Vietnam Airlines livery

EVERETT, Wash., June 11, 2015 /PRNewswire/ -- The Boeing (NYSE: BA) 787-9 Dreamliner soars aboveWashington state in a new video released today, offering the public a first look at the demonstration Boeing is scheduled to flyJune 15-18 at the 2015 Paris Air Show.

Filmed above Moses Lake, Wash., the video spotlights technical maneuvers that showcase some of the airplane's many capabilities. With new angles and the stunning livery of 787-9 customer Vietnam Airlines, the video builds on the excitement of Boeing's 2014 Farnborough Airshow rehearsal, which has been viewed more than four million times.

The Boeing 787-9 is the second and newest member of the 787 family, super-efficient airplanes with new passenger-pleasing features. With the fuselage stretched 20 feet (6 meters) over the 787-8, the 787-9 can fly more passengers and more cargo farther yet with the same exceptional environmental efficiency – 20 percent less fuel use and emissions than the airplanes they replace.

Through May 2015, 30 customers from around the world have ordered 509 787-9s, 46 percent of all 787 orders.

Contact:
Julie O'Donnell
787 Program Communications
+1 425-266-2927
julie.o'donnell@boeing.com

More information:
https://youtu.be/KYbM-3E11Qo
www.boeing.com/PAS2015
www.boeing.com/787

SOURCE Boeing