Boeing Awards $200 million in Space Contracts to Small Businesses

Supplier partners will provide products and services to the International Space Station

HOUSTON, June 8, 2016 – Boeing [NYSE: BA] has awarded $200 million in contracts to small businesses for work on the International Space Station (ISS). Boeing is NASA's prime contractor for the ISS.

The contracts were awarded under the Boeing Engineering and Technical Support Service program. The selected companies provide expertise in a number of areas including engineering, information technology, software development and mission assurance support. Recipients include S&K Global Solutions, LLC, Polson, Mont.; Barrios Technology, Ltd., Houston; ALATEC, Inc., Huntsville, Ala.; Summit Technologies & Solutions, Inc., Alexandria, Va.; RVMTI JV, LLC, Cedar Park, Texas; and All Points Logistics, LLC, Merritt Island, Fla. Contracts cover the period of performance from October 2016 to September 2020.

During the first half of the government's 2016 fiscal year, Boeing Space Exploration programs, which include the ISS, Commercial Crew and Space Launch System, purchased approximately $754 million in products and services from a network of 690 suppliers. Included in these purchases were contracts worth about $211 million awarded to small and diverse businesses.

"Supplier partners are critical to our growth and success," said Mark Mulqueen, Boeing ISS program manager. "It's important to Boeing and our NASA customer that we commit significant resources to growing our small business network through targeted outreach, mentoring programs and regular collaboration."

In 2016 Boeing celebrates 100 years of pioneering aviation accomplishments and launches its second century as an innovative, customer-focused aerospace technology and capabilities provider, community partner and preferred employer. Through its Defense, Space & Security unit, Boeing is a global leader in this marketplace and is the world's largest and most versatile manufacturer of military aircraft. Headquartered in St. Louis, Defense, Space & Security is a $30 billion business with 50,000 employees worldwide. Follow us on Twitter: @BoeingDefense.
